Dear ,

Our first training event of the year is next month in Syracuse and we hope you can join us. It's going to be a good one!

Privacy protection is the topic, specifically, the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) now in affect in Europe. We may see something in the United States some day. See below for more information.

GDPR: The Gold Standard in Privacy Protection

The European Union (EU) General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) took affect on May 25, 2018. The regulation is designed to protect the privacy rights and freedoms of individuals residing in the EU. However, the regulation is being deemed the new "gold standard" for privacy protection globally. Under GDPR, individuals have specific data subject rights relating to data erasure/deletion and organizations have defined data retention and destruction responsibilities. In this session, Lisa will introduce attendees to GDPR and share how to facilitate a path towards records/information management compliance under the regulation.
